Near Death In Big Pond.

It was a thrilling experience to Mrs. Ida Soper to face death. "For years a severe lung trouble gave me intense suffering," she writes, "and several times nearly caused my death. All remedies failed and doctors said I was incurable. Then Dr. King's New Discovery brought quick relief and a cure so permanent that I have not been troubled in twelve years." Mrs. Soper lives in Big Pond, Pa. It works wonders in Coughs and Colds, Sore Throats, Hemorrhages, LaGrippe, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough and all Bronchial affections. 25c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Campbell Drug Co.

Is an ordeal which all women approach with dread, for nothing compares to the pain of child-birth. The thought of the suffering in store for her robs the expectant mother of pleasant anticipations.

At the Play.

"The Clansman," presented by the George H. Brennan company at the Grand last night, failed to draw a very large audience. There was considerable of a sprinkling of empty seats both upstairs and down. Just why the play should have had as much of a hold on the public as it has, is a wonder. While it may be very good from the point of historical setting, at the same time it appeals more to people's prejudice and tends to stir up feeling between the white and black races than anything else. As given last night, the play was acted fairly well. Vinnie Burns as Flora Stone, the daughter of Austin Stone, the radical northern leader, showed some talent as an emotional actress. She had a very sobful part to play. Arthur De Voe, as Ben Cameron, the Clansman, was either disappointing or his acting was not appreciated. He seemed to rush through his lines as if he wished to get through as soon as possible. His hurried utterances may have been intended to be "frenzy with passion," but his voice sounded more like he had mush or buckshot in his mouth. Joseph R. Garry as Silas Lynch, the colored lieutenant governor of South Carolina, stalked through his part, scowling, sneering and thundering at poor little Governor Shrimp (acted by J. R. Lorraine) like a demagogue. As far as naturalness is concerned, the minor parts were better than the leading ones. James O. Sanders as General Nathan B. Forrest, the Grand Wizard of the Klan, had but a few lines to say, but taken together with his splendid makeup, he produced a very favorable impression. Maude Durand, as Eve, and W. T. Planagan, as Nelse, her husband, old fashioned dandies, were good and true to life. Doubtless Eve with her "Umphs" and singings to those from the south recalled childhood memories of old time lullabies. It must be noted also that there were "rough" horses used in the play and the animals were not afflicted at all with stage fright.

Menominee, Mich., March 20.—Fred Stephenson, who is at present in Mexico, has accepted an invitation from former President Roosevelt to join the African hunting expedition. Mr. Stephenson will go direct from Vera Cruz to Mombasa.

Royal Bread and WHY

Maybe you remember what Lincoln said: "You can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

We are talking about Humbog—there is quite a little humbug in the making of bread.

We claim to be one of the bakeries making and selling an HONEST product.

We'll say even more than that: If we were to be arrested, charged with selling the best bread baked in the state of Kansas, there is no doubt that we would be found "Guilty."

We admit it.

That's why our Royal Bread is the most popular in Topeka and Kansas. You can get it at most any grocery.

AT THE BAKING SCHOOL

Monday, the following will be baked: Almond Cream Cake, Marble Cookies, Sour Cream Pie.

This will be a big week at the school, none can afford to miss it.

You many times purchase Cook Books, then spend weeks, say nothing about the waste of material, in experimenting before you can bake what is in the book, not so at the baking school, here the recipes cost nothing, you see them put together and baked, then eat the result, quite a thorough lesson, is it not?
